What is Coaching Leadership

You have several years of experience in a leadership role. You know and master the basics. You realize that your personal interpretation of your role makes the difference.

In these workshops you will deepen and broaden your leadership skills. You examine your current style, understand your strengths and grow in your leadership role as a result.

You gain a greater awareness of different leadership styles and you explore the possibilities for better utilization of these in your role as a leader. You will experience how you can apply the different leadership styles more effectively in your daily practice to increase the effectiveness of your leadership.

We will work in an interactive, intensive manner. The program is tailored to your own needs and goals, because we work with the group's own cases.

We organize the two workshops around the following themes:

- Leading Yourself
- Leading Others
- Situational leadership
- Motivating employees
- Delegate to employees
- Coaching leadership

Among others, the following principles are discussed and especially applied in practice:

- How to motivate people (Daniel Pink)
- Situational Leadership (Hersey & Blanchard)
- How to delegate (Jurgen Appelo)

Who should attend Coaching Leadership

You have extensive experience in a managerial or coordinating role. For example: team, project, program and department leaders, but also Product Owners and Scrummasters.
